

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The multiple calls are made from a single portable wireless communication terminal according to the current invention. The user interface of the preferred
5 embodiments allows the user of the portable wireless communication terminal to easily select a desired channel from a predetermined number of channels to initiate, terminate and accept a call without sacrificing portability.